Cross-cutting Issues

PGI and CEA as cross cutting approaches have been ensuring protection, dignity access, accountability through a meaningful participation and engagement of community and mainstreaming to all sectors.

Protection Gender & Inclusion (PGI)

PGI activities through Dignity, Access, Participation and Safety (DAPS) approach in camp 13, 14, 17 and 19. Activities, continued in the reporting month, were skill-based learning, regular referrals activity, outreach visits, recreational activities, structural games (designed games with intended objective) and awareness session on gender and women protection issues to ensure gender equality and inclusion of People with Disabilities (PWD) in camps

A total of 19,648 people (9,700 are male and 9,948 are female) including 780 Persons with Disabilities (PWD) from both guest and host Communities have been benefitted through PGI activities. Moreover, 315 staff and volunteer received orientation and training on PGI. Vulnerability assessment, Person with Disability secondary assessment in collaboration with CRP, distribution of PSEA posters to all sectors are on the que. 7,069 pieces of Solar lamps and umbrellas distributed in camp 14.

DAPS approach pushes vulnerability to resilience

Build resilience is one of the core objectives of PGI among the vulnerable groups of the Myanmar Refugees staying in Cox's Bazar. As part of this, PGI set activities at DAPS so that the community, especially the most vulnerable groups, can find their own way of surviving through supporting and cooperating one another in a protected and friendly environment.

Kulsum (20) and Rebeya (25) are examples of community cooperation and supporting each other to develop their lifestyle. Fatema was a participant in the DAPS tailoring activity, and there she learned tailoring. Fatema used to come to DAPS regularly to practice and to sew her own clothes using the DAPS sewing machine. Rebeya also participated in DAPS activities, and they knew how to sew clothes but didn't know the process of cutting clothes into the proper shape and size. Fatema, seeing Rebeya struggling with cutting clothes, started to support her and to teach her the techniques. Thus, DAPS shed a light on the women's lives of hopes and encouragement in very congested camp settlement.

Community Engagement and Accountability (CEA)

A total of 13,446 people including 8,081 male and 5,365 female were benefitted from community participation and engagement approaches. To engage the people and their participation different feedback channels were used including information and feedback hub, help desk, household visits, radio listening program, community meeting, community consultation session, capacity building issues, Information and feedback box and audio messages. CEA team also used community center, mosque, agencies camp offices and others community common spaces to disseminate information in relation to COVID-19 vaccination, scabies, landslide risk and precaution, safe water, fire safety and early marriage in camps.

Staff capacity develop on financial and logistics management

37 staff participated at a 2-day long workshop on "Finance and Logistics Management".

Workshop was designed with the objectives to develop the knowledge, skills, and awareness of newly recruited and existing staff to comply with the BDRCS' standard Financial and Logistics Management procedures including standard operating procedures (SoP) for budgeting and planning, cash forecasting, procurement, working advance and settlements, and financial reporting. In addition, a special focus was given to Bangladesh tax ordinance, Risk management and prevention of fraud and corruption. Workshop sessions were delivered with case studies, group discussions and presenting outcome of the group exercises. Workshop will minimize the gaps of non-compliance and prevent potential fraud and corruption through the increased awareness and knowledge of staff and bring synergies among the program and support services.
